"Janice Meredith"
As A Historical Novel

"The poles are not more widely sundered than are the two types of historical novels; the one for the writing of which the author has 'read up,' the other, written because the author's mind has reached the saturation point. The one is a manufacture, the other is a precipitation. In the one we are introduced into the valley of dry bones; in the other they have been clothed with flesh and breathe and move before us. In the one, the insistence is upon the speech, the customs, the ideas, that differentiate the past from the present; in the other, upon the thread of common human nature running through all times and peoples. From the one the reader is remote and alien; in the other, his ancestors have become his contemporaries. No one familiar with the trend of Mr. Ford's studies and the quality of his work will need to be told to which class 'Janice Meredith' belongs."

THE LIFE AND LETTERS OF SIR JOHN EVERETT MILLAIS

President of the Royal Academy

By His Son, JOHN G. MILLAIS

THE MOST IMPORTANT CONTRIBUTION TO ART PUBLISHED IN YEARS

These two magnificent volumes comprise the authoritative biography of the most distinguished and popular painter of the last half of the century. They contain the story of his extraordinary boyhood, of his early struggles, of the founding of the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood, now first given to the world in authentic detail, of the painting of most of his famous pictures, of his friendships with many of the most distinguished men of the day in art, letters, and politics, of his home life and of his sporting tastes and amusements.

Not the least attractive and remarkable feature of this book is the magnificence of its illustrations, 316 in number. No more complete representation of the art of any painter has ever been produced on the same scale. The owners of Sir John Millais' most famous pictures have generously given their consent to their reproduction in his biography, and over two hundred pictures and sketches which have never been reproduced before, and which in all probability will never be seen again by the general public, appear in these pages. Nine of Millais' finest pictures are reproduced in photogravure.

Two vols., size 6½ x 10 inches, about 960 pages, cloth, gilt top, boxed, . . . . . $10.00

Three-quarters levant, . . . . . 20.00
A Special Edition, limited to 250 sets, contains nine of Millais' great paintings reproduced in photogravure and printed on Imperial Japan paper. The price of this limited edition is $15.00. It is bound in cloth, profusely stamped in gold, with title-page in two colors, and the manufacture of the set is the most perfect possible in every way. Send for descriptive circular.

THE TRANSVAAL FROM WITHIN

A PRIVATE RECORD OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS

By J. F. FITZPATRICK

Author of "The Outspan."

This work is such an extraordinary record of the occurrences of 1895-'96 in the Transvaal and of the conditions that led up to them that Lord Rosebery, in a speech, advised all his hearers to procure a copy.

The author, a South African by birth, a resident of the Transvaal since 1884, was Secretary of the Reform Committee, and he has made a record that will be part of the history of South Africa. With index.

Size 6 x 9 inches, cloth, 452 pages, . . . . . $3.00

SECOND EDITION

ACTIVE SERVICE

By STEPHEN CRANE

Author of "The Red Badge of Courage," etc.

"Stephen Crane has reached maturity at a bound in his new novel. He has dropped his mannerisms and acquired a manner. He tells his story swiftly, vigorously, and always with limpid clearness. The story is worth the telling."—The New York Herald.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, 345 pages, . . . . . $1.25

CUPID AND THE FOOTLIGHTS

By JAMES L. FORD

Author of "The Literary Shop," etc.

A very interesting and unique little love-story. Told entirely by the documents in the case.

Size 9 x 12 inches, with an ornamental cover, . . . $1.50

THE LIGHT OF SCARTHEY

By EGERTON CASTLE

Author of the "Pride of Jennico," etc.

Of this stirring romance the author has just written as follows: "Among the writer's literary family is there not one nearer his heart than all the rest—his dream-child? . . . This book is my dream-child."

The story is of one Adrian Landale, a young English nobleman of a hundred years ago—"the days when in Liverpool the privateers were daily fitting out or bringing in the 'prizes' . . . the days of war and the fortunes of war; days of press-gangs, to kidnap unwilling rulers of the waves," days of "the now rather incomprehensible pursuit of gold-smuggling—a romantic subject, if ever there was one."

"It is not times of nowadays, no ordinary scenery that would suit such adventures as befell Adrian Landale or Captain Jack, or 'Murdering Moll the second,'" the chief characters in the story of the love and life of a light-keeper, "who was once a Dreamer of Beautiful Things." The first edition of this book has already been oversold; the second edition is now printing.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, 434 pages, . . . . . $1.50

28th THOUSAND

THE MARKET-PLACE

By HAROLD FREDERIC

The last work of the greatest American author of this decade, and the author of "The Damnation of Theron Ware," "March Hares," etc.

With excellent illustrations by Harrison Fisher.

"The 'Market-Place' is a fine piece of work, one of the best novels of the year, a literary legacy that will be remembered almost as an heirloom."

"From title-page to colophon it is compact of virility. As a study of character it is supreme, for there is not one single failure in the book, and as a Romance of the City has no equal in modern fiction."—The Bookman.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, 401 pages, . . . . . $1.50

THE DOMINION OF DREAMS

By FIONA MACLEOD

Author of "The Mountain Lovers," "Pharais," etc.

The spirit and the dreams of the Gael are the author's theme, and she has treated them with wonderful skill.

"For sheer originality, other qualities apart, her tales are as remarkable, perhaps, as anything we have had of the kind since Mr. Kipling appeared."—London Academy.

"Of the extreme beauty and subtlety of Miss Macleod's work, there is no need now to speak."—Literature.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, 327 pages, . . . . . $1.50

THE CROWN OF LIFE

By GEORGE GISSING

A strong novel by the author of "The Whirlpool," etc.

"To the thoughtful reader, the story will be worth a dozen tales of love and marriage."—Providence Journal.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, 360 pages, . . . . . $1.50

JENNIE BAXTER, JOURNALIST

By ROBERT BARR

Author of "Tekla," "In the Midst of Alarms," etc.

Jennie Baxter is a unique character in the world of fiction, and a most interesting one.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, 337 pages, illustrated, $1.25

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY, 5 and 7 East 16th Street, New York

A Remarkable Record.

THE Regular Edition of the Fifth Annual Book Number of the Chicago Evening Post was unusually large, and judging from all previous experiences sufficient for even extraordinary demands.

Second Edition Necessary.

The orders for it, however, have continued to come in such quantities that it has been necessary to print a second large edition.

This is probably the first instance on record of a special edition of a daily newspaper being of such permanent value that it continues to be ordered two weeks after its publication. It proves, too, the esteem in which it is held in Chicago and the Northwest, where its readers select their Christmas gifts from the reviews and publishers' announcements which appear in its columns.

THE CHICAGO EVENING POST

will print illustrated reviews of books every Wednesday and Saturday until Christmas. Publishers' announcements should be mailed from the East not later than Monday to secure insertion on Wednesday, and not later than Thursday for Saturday.

NOTES IN SEASON.

SMALL, MAYNARD & Co. have added two new volumes to their attractive series of Beacon Biographies. They are "John Brown," by Joseph Edgar Chamberlain, and "Aaron Burr," by Henry Childs Merwin. These volumes present succinctly the essential and salient facts in the lives of the men to whom they are devoted. To render still more accessible the information they contain, the volumes are provided with chronologies and bibliographies.

LILLIAN GRAY JARVIE, 276 S. Homan Avenue, Chicago, Ill., has just ready two books by Elizabeth Harrison—"Two Children of the Foothills," a practical application of how to apply the methods of Froebel in the development of child character, which will be of especial interest to parents and teachers; also, "In Storyland," fifteen charming stories for children, written from the kindergarten standpoint.

J. F. TAYLOR & Co., New York, have just ready Mrs. Amelia E. Barr's story of Old New York, entitled "Trinity Bells," with illustrations by C. M. Relyea; also, "Little Leather Breeches, and other Southern rhymes," a number of folk-lore songs, negro rhymes, street-venders' cries, etc., gathered from various parts of the South, by Francis P. Wightman, who has also mapped out the text of the book in a very artistic manner, and interspersed it with a number of "jolly" pictures that have been printed in colors.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish next week, under the title of "Briton and Boer," a volume made up of the more important recent articles on the subject, including "The Historical Causes of the Present War in the Transvaal," by James Bryce; "England and the Transvaal," by Sydney Brook; "A Vindication of the Boer," being a rejoinder to Sydney Brook by "A Diplomatist"; "A Transvaal View of the South African Question," by Dr. F. V. Egenburg; "The Transvaal War and European Opinion," by Karl Blind; "The South African Question," by Andrew Carnegie; "Will the Powers Intervene?" by Francis Charnes; and "A Possible Continental Alliance Against England," by Demetrius C. Boulger.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready the important "History of American Privateers," by Edgar Stanton Maclay, author of the standard "History of the United States Navy"; "The White Terror," the new romance, by Félix Gras, author of "The Reds of the Midi," translated from the Provençal by Mrs. Catharine A. Janvier; "The Story of Ronald Kestrel," a novel of literary life, by A. J. Dawson; and "Canada," by J. N. McIlraith, a new volume in Appletons' History for Young Readers Series. Arrangements have been made for an Australian edition of "David Harum," which will be issued shortly. It is said that the 350th thousand mark has been passed with this phenomenal book, and the sale in the smaller cities and towns throughout the country is reported everywhere to be on the increase.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready an important work on mountain climbing in the Andes, entitled "The Highest Andes: a record of the first ascent of Aconcagua and Tupungato in Argentina, and the exploration of the surrounding valleys," by E. A. Fitz Gerald, author of "Climbs in the New Zealand Alps." The intensely interesting account by Fitz Gerald is supplemented with chapters by his companions, Stuart Vines, Professor Bonney, G. C. Crick, R. I. Pocock, G. A. Boulenger, I. H. Burkill, and Philip Gosse. The handsome volume contains two maps by A. E. Lightbody, fifty-one illustrations, a number of them in photogravure, and a panorama. They have also just ready a second volume of Dr. William Henry Green's work entitled "General Introduction to the Old Testament," which treats of the text as the author's first volume dealt with the canon of the Old Testament; also, "For the Freedom of the Sea," a romance of the war of 1812, by Cyrus Townsend Brady, with twelve full-page illustrations.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Barr, Mrs. Amelia Edith. Was it right to forgive? a domestic romance. Chic., H. S. Stone & Co., 1899. c. 3+294 p. D. cl., $1.50. [4233]

A story of New York City and a beautiful suburban spot where the actors in the tale are first thrown together. A very worldly mother and self-absorbed father have brought up a son and daughter who become the fates in the lives of a son and daughter of a Dutch Calvinistic builder, who in their turn are models of patience and unselfishness. Theorizes very fully upon the separate standard of morality required for men and women.

- This book is the result of a trip through Siberia and Central Asia made by the author during the summer and autumn of last year. It consists mostly of letters written by him while on the journey, which were published by several western newspapers. The book was first printed for private circulation, but at the request of many it has been offered to the general public. Mr. Bookwalter is a successful business man and a great manufacturer, his observations being eminently practical. His work is a valuable contribution to the literature on the Eastern question.

- A humorous mock-essay states the author's opinion that inanimate things once had life, which he founds upon the gender in German and French which makes things men and women. His characters are the pert fire-engine, the lazy lamp-post, the house who walked in her sleep, the terrible train, the very grand piano, etc. Eight full-page color plates and forty-five black and white drawings.
- Burnett, Mrs. Frances Hodgson. In connection with the De Willoughby claim. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1899. c. 3+445 p. D. cl., $1.50. [4252]
- "Big Tom Willoughby" was a social failure. He belonged to an old and cultured southern family, who grew to be very much ashamed of his bigness, his laziness, and his ignorance. He asks his father for a sum of money and leaves his home, burying himself in an out-of-the-way southern town, where he opens a roadside store. A little child comes into his life most unexpectedly, saving him from despair, and the "Willoughby claim" passes Congress, restoring to him his birthright. There is a tragedy which strongly contrasts the northern and southern character.
- Burr, C. Burr. A brief history of the City of New York. N. Y., American Book Co., [1899.] c. 299 p. map, il. D. cl., 75 c. [4253]
- Written at the suggestion of public school teachers and members of the City History Club as a text-book for use in public and private schools of New York, as well as for all others interested in the study of the city's striking and romantic history. It has been the author's aim to present this history concisely, accurately, and impartially, and at the same time to weave into the narrative such details of manners, customs, and domestic life as would lend it local color and render the picture clear and complete. — Preface.

In 1887 the author published a book on "Romantic love and personal beauty," dealing with modern romantic love. The present volume is concerned with the love affairs of savages and barbarians. The book is a vindication of civilization. The author has gained most of his facts from original sources (Catlin, Schoolcraft, Chapman, Stephens). The volume embodies twelve years' research in the libraries of Europe and America. The book covers the evolution of love. Bibliography (14 p.). Index to subjects (9 p.).

Fishbough, W. The end of the ages; with forecasts of the approaching political, social, and religious construction of America and the world. N. Y., Continental Pub. Co., [1899.] c. '98. 16+392 p. O. cl., $1.50. [4306]

The book was written before 1881, but its prophecies have a meaning still under the present condition of the world when political conditions are changing hourly and many new theories come and go, looking to an explanation of the mysteries of life. The tone is optimistic.

Fiske, J. A century of science, and other essays. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. 8+477 p. D. cl., $2. [4307]

Contents: A century of science; The doctrine of evolution, its scope and purport; Edward Livingston Youmans; The part played by infancy in the evolution of man; The origins of liberal thought in America; Sir Harry Vane; The arbitration treaty; Francis Parkman; Edward Augustus Freeman; Irish folk-tales; Forty years of Bacon-Shakespeare folly; Some cranks and their crotchets.

Fitz Gerald, E. Arthur. The highest Andes: a record of the first ascent of Aconcagua and Tupungato in Argentina, and the exploration of the surrounding valleys; with chapters by Stuart Vines, and contributions by Professor Bonney and others. N. Y., C. Scribner's Sons, 1899. 3-390 p. maps, il. O. cl., net, $6. [4308]

"This book is the outcome of seven months' work by myself and my colleagues—Mr. Stuart Vines, Mr. Arthur Lightbody, and Mr. Philip Gosse—in the Andes of Argentina. My expedition had for its object primarily the triangulation of the country immediately surrounding the peak of Aconcagua, America's highest mountain; and secondly, the scaling of the great peak itself, which had up to that time defied the efforts of all who had attempted to gain its summit."—Author's

Preface. Four appendices contain valuable scientific and historical information. Index.

A former volume by the professor of Oriental and Old Testament literature in Princeton Theological Seminary dealt with the principle of collection of the books of the Old Testament. This treats of the character and condition of the text, of Hebrew as a living language and its special adaptation to be the vehicle of preliminary revelation. The origin and authority of the vowel points is specially investigated. The volume is intended to furnish authoritative material for textual criticism.

*Greenleaf, Simon. A treatise on the law of evidence. In 3 v. V. 2. 16th ed., rev., enl., and annot., by E: Avery Harriman. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1899. c. 96+638 p. O. shp., $5. [4330]

The object of this little collection of prints is to inroduce the pupil to Raphael through the pictures which are most attractive to the young. Obviously such pictures must appeal directly to the imagination with some story interest; their meaning must be easy to read. With this characteristic as the leading principle of choice, the variety of subjects is as wide as the conditions admit. The text has only the modest aim of making the pictures intelligible. The introduction is for teachers.

Juanita Kyle is the "young savage," whose father had rapidly made a fortune in Colorado. She had led the free, unconventional life of the far west—riding, shooting, dancing with ranchers. Her father, wishing to give her social training, secures her a home in a New York family, once rich but reduced in fortune, refined and judiciously kind. How she at first shocked the Latimers; how she was gradually "tamed" by the patient invalidism of the mother, the alarming illness of a daughter, and yet more by the presence of a son—all this is told in an attractive style, and makes a thoroughly wholesome story.

Kropotkin, P: (Prince.) Memoirs of a revolutionist. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. c. 14+519 p. por. D. cl., $2. [4373]

Hardly any man of this generation has had a more varied and adventurous career than that of Prince Kropotkin, the famous Russian revolutionist. He belongs to the oldest Russian nobility, was for some years a page in the imperial court, became chamberlain to the Czarina, and early achieved distinction as a scientific student. Becoming involved in the revolutionary movements in Russia, he was arrested as an anarchist in 1873, his property was confiscated, and he was imprisoned in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul in St. Petersburg. After an imprisonment of three years he escaped under most thrilling circumstances, and continued to preach revolution in Switzerland and later in France where he was again imprisoned. Latterly he has resided in England, where he has written much in favor of his social and political theories. Published in the Atlantic Monthly under the title "The autobiography of a revolutionist," and now much enlarged.

Lafleur, Paul T. Illustrations of logic. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1899. c. 6+97 p. D. cl., 45 c. [4374]

Captain Musgrave went to Cuba as a correspondent for an English paper, suffered imprisonment, and narrowly escaped death. He describes life in the Cuban, Spanish, and American camps with a vivid and picturesque pen, and with the accuracy of an eye-witness. Arriving at Cuba with prejudices in favor of Spain, his sympathy was soon aroused for the Cuban patriots, whose sacrifices and heroic deeds are recounted in the pages of his book.

- Pyle, Katharine. Prose and verse for children; with pictures by the author. N. Y., American Book Co., [1899.] 168 p. D. (Eclectic school readings.) cl., 40 c. [4443]
The author has here made a collection for schools of her contributions to St. Nicholas, Harper's Round Table, and the children's columns of The Outlook and The Independent. These she has classified under the months of the year.
- Rawson, E. Kirk. Twenty famous naval battles: Salamis to Santiago. N. Y., T. Y. Crowell & Co., [1899.] c. 2 v., 30+344; 6+345-730 p. O. cl., $4. [4444]
The author, as superintendent of Naval War Records, has had access to unusual sources of information, and has illustrated his text with a remarkable series of maps, plans, and cuts. The twenty battles are: Salamis, 480 B.C.; Actium, 31 B.C.; Lepanto, 1571; Defeat of the Armada, 1588; last flight of the Revenge, 1591; fight off Dungeness, 1652; the battle of La Hogue, 1692; the contest between Bon Homme Richard and Serapis, 1779; the battle of the Nile, 1798; duel between Foudroyant and Guillaume Tell, 1799; Trafalgar, 1805; battle between Constitution and Guerrière, 1812; Lake Erie, 1813; engagement between Monitor and Merri-mac, 1862; between Kearsarge and Alabama, 1864; Mobile Bay, 1864; Lissa, 1866; victory over the Huascar, 1879; Manila Bay, 1898; Santiago, 1898.
- *Read, Opie P., ["Arkansaw traveller," pseud.,] and Pixley, Frank. The carpet-bagger: a novel. Chic., Laird & Lee, 1899. il. 12°, cl., $1. [4445]
- Reade, C. Peg Woffington; with an introd. by Austin Dobson, and il. by Hugh Thomson. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1899. 51+298 p. D. cl., $2. [4446]
Hugh Thomson, the illustrator of Jane Austen, has drawn seventy illustrations for this, one of the best of Reade's novels. The story, with its portrayal of early theatrical life in London, when Garrick, Barry, Colley Cibber, and Kitty Clive gathered about the immortal Woffington, lends itself readily to illustration.
- *Reade, C. Works; il. with photogravures and etchings by Frank T. Merrill. New il. Cabinet ed. Bost., Dana Estes & Co., 1899. 16 v., 12°, $24; hf. cf. or mor., $48. [4447]
- Reid, W. Jameson. Through unexplored Asia; il. by L. J. Bridgman. Bost., Dana Estes & Co., [1899.] c. 2+499 p. O. cl., $4.50. [4448]
An account of a journey of exploration through the hitherto unknown regions of Western China and Eastern Tibet during the year 1894, in conjunction with the late G. Burton. This immense region, extending for hundreds of miles along the western Chinese frontier, had up to that time successfully baffled the efforts of explorers and ethnologists to penetrate its jealously guarded domains. The work gives an excellent idea of the habits of the various tribes of people met with, besides many interesting and instructive hitherto unknown facts about this great unexplored region. Mr. Reid is a member of the Royal Geographical Society of London. Contains many plans and maps of the country through which the explorers passed.
- Richardson, Mrs. Aubrey. Famous ladies of the English court. Chic., H. S. Stone & Co., 1899. 16+467 p. il. pors. O. cl., net, $3.50. [4449] Pen sketches and portraits of Elizabeth, Countess of Shrewsbury, "Bess of Hardwick"; The Lady Mary Sidney; Mary, Countess of Pembroke; Penelope—Lady Rich, "Countess of Essex and of Devonshire; The Lady Anne Clifford, Countess of Pembroke, etc.; Lucy, Countess of Carlisle; Frances, Duchess of Richmond; Anne, Countess of Sunderland; Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough; Henrietta, Countess of Suffolk; The Lady Sarah Lennox; Isabella, Marchioness of Hertford.
- *Riddle, G. A modern reader and speaker; adapted to schools and colleges and public recitals. Chic., H. S. Stone & Co., 1899. 12°, buckram, $1.50. [4450]
- Roberts, Morley. The colossus: a story of to-day. N. Y., Harper, 1899. c. 3+317 p. D. cl., $1.25. [4451]
The colossus is supposed to be Cecil Rhodes. The vast British empire building plans in Africa and the phenomenal financeering schemes for the building of the railway from Cairo to the Cape of Good Hope are cleverly discussed between the characters. A woman shows unusual financial ability and is an important factor in making successful the great "civilizer"—the railroad.
- Roberts, W. Carman and Theodore, Macdonald, Eliz. Roberts. Northland lyrics; selected and arranged, with a prologue, by C. G. D. Roberts, and an epilogue by Bliss Carman. Bost., Small, Maynard & Co., 1899. c. 7+86 p. sq. D. cl., $1.50. [4452]

- Roe, Mary A. E. P. Roe: reminiscences of his life; by his sister. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1899. c. 7+235 p. D. cl., $1.50. [4454]
Edgar Payson Roe was born in 1838 and died in 1888. He was a Presbyterian minister who became a soldier during the Civil War, and a writer of novels (Barriers burned away; Opening of a chestnut burr; His sombre rivals, etc.), which were among the most popular books a generation ago. He also studied nature (Near to nature's heart; Success with small fruits, etc.). His younger sister has gathered the material for this biography.

- Russell, W. Clark. The ship, her story; il. by H. C. Seppings Wright. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., [1899.] c. 8+158 p. O. cl., $2. [4459]
The author calls this "a volume of gossip about ships." With many pictures and anecdotes it gives the story of the birth of the ship, her launch, her growth from the "dugout" to a P. & O. steamer, and an armor-clad ship-of-war.
- Safford, Susan Darling. Quaint epitaphs; collected by Susan Darling Safford. Rev. ed. Bost., A. J. Ochs & Co., [1899.] c. '98. 57 p. O. cl., $1. [4460]
Quaint and amusing epitaphs found in old graveyards in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, New York, etc. Grouped by localities.
- Sage, Agnes Carr. A little daughter of the Revolution: a story of the boys and girls of '76; il. by Mabel L. Humphrey. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., [1899.] c. 3+203 p. D. cl., $1.50. [4461]
A story of child-life during the War for Independence; the scenes are laid in Boston, in Philadelphia, and in New York.
- Sagebeer, Jos. Evans. The Bible in court: the method of legal inquiry applied to the study of the scriptures. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1900 [1899.] c. 201 p. D. cl., $1.25. [4462]
Explains the methods by which legal evidence is sifted in court, and then judges the statements of the Bible by the same process.
- Schelling, Felix E., ed. A book of seventeenth century lyrics; selected and ed., with an introd., by Felix E. Schelling. Bost., Ginn & Co., 1899. c. 69+314 p. D. (Athenæum Press ser.) cl., $1.20. [4463]

Made up of English lyrics which fall between the years 1625 and 1700. The method pursued in the selection and arrangement of the poems is much the same as that of the editor's "Elizabethan lyrics." There are indexes of authors and editors, of first lines, and to introduction and notes.

Steuart, J: A. Wine on the lees. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1899. c. 2+362 p. D. cl., $1.50. [4491]

The head of the fabulously rich house of ale brewers, Twickham & Son, was a lord of the realm, and counted princes and premiers among his familiar friends. His advertising and money schemes show up business methods of the present day. His son finally revolts at the harm done by drink and opposes his father's schemes. The various phases of the drink problem are most realistically stated. The spark of humanity left in Twickham affords the interest of the story.

Stevenson, Rob. L: The letters of Robert Louis Stevenson to his family and friends; selected and ed., with notes and introd., by Sidney Colvin. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1899. 2 v., 43+443; 13+461 p. pors. O. cl., net, $5. [4492]

In 1888 Stevenson put into the hands of his son-in-law a letter to be opened after his death. When the end came the paper was found to contain the wish that Sidney Colvin should be asked to prepare for publication "a selection of his letters and a sketch of his life." Four hundred and fifty letters depict the life of Stevenson from his eighteenth year until his death. About half of these letters have appeared in Scribner's Magazine. The very best are now published for the first time, with many illustrations and facsimiles never before published. An introduction gives a picture of Stevenson by the editor, who was very near to him, and to whom the "Vailima letters," published in 1897, were written.

A collection of humorous and pathetic tales of the south, which includes "Uncle Riah's Christmas eve," that has been rechristened "Holly and 'pizen,'" and under that title gives its name to the book. The four other tales—"A note of scarlet," "Queen o' Sheba's triumph," "Uncle Still's famous weather prophecy," and "Picayune"—are pleasantly remembered by readers of The Century and other magazines.

Sweet, Frank H. The minister's family: a story of our Father's care for his children. Nashville, Tenn., The Cumberland Press, 1899. 3-37 p. D. cl., 35 c. [4499]

A northern minister in ill-health and a little behind the times in fashion and display is asked to resign from his church. Some generous actions have taken all his ready money, and he finds himself and family penniless. His children plan to help him back to health and hope, and the first step is to get south. This is accomplished by travelling slowly in a big wagon and cooking their own food. The story shows the minister finally in a new church, with many friends.

"Becky Sharp," Langdon Mitchell's play founded on "Vanity Fair," was produced at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York City, on September 12, 1899, by Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske. Scenes from this play have been reproduced by arrangement with Mrs. Fiske, and are used to illustrate the telling parts of the novel. The characters playing in Mrs. Fiske's caste now appear as Thackeray's characters. The original caste of characters is given in the volume.

*Theocritus. The Sicilian idyls of Theocritus; tr. into English lyric measures by Marion Mills Miller. Bost., R: G. Badger & Co., 1899. 16°, flex. leath., $1.25. [4506]

The author is professor of Hebrew in Harvard University. A general introduction points out the work that has been done relating to the Book of Proverbs. Bibliography (2 p.).

True, J: Preston. The iron star and what it saw on its journey through the ages from myth to history; il. by Lilian Crawford True. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1899. c. 6+146 p. il. D. cl., $1 50. [4510]

Aims to give children a series of historical stories, so connected as to suggest the growth of civilization from the times of the Cave Men down through the Stone, Bronze and Iron Ages, to the days of Myles Standish, and thus bridge the gap between myth and history. This is accomplished by following the fortunes of fragments of a meteorite ("The iron star"), which are assumed to have been handed down from father to son for century after century.

Trumbull, H: Clay. The covenant of salt as based on the significance and symbolism

- of salt in primitive thought. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1899. c. 6+184 p. O. cl., $1.50. [4511]
The author's former works on "The blood covenant" and "The threshold covenant" are supplemented by this volume. In primitive thought salt represents blood or life, and the covenant of salt is simply another form of the one blood covenant. As far as the writer knows, this truth has not before been recognized or formulated. The volume includes a previously published monograph on "The Ten Commandments as a covenant of love." Topical index; Scriptural index.

In his introduction Mr. Harris says: "It is safe to say that never before has an artist caught with such vital and startling distinctness . . . the characters which gave to the old plantation . . . one of its most enchanting features." And in her verses, as well as in the twenty-four drawings, Miss Weeden gives us a view of the "quality negro" of antebellum days so free from artifice and arbitrary dialect that it is new to the present generation. A number of new drawings and verses are included with the original "Shadows on the wall."
- Wells, Amos R. Sermons in stones and in other things: some practical lessons for life drawn from every-day surroundings. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1899. c. 11+342 p. D. cl., $1. [4531]
Most of these little "sermons" have first been preached in the columns of the Christian Endeavor World, of which Mr. Wells is one of the editors. The familiar objects of each man's daily life have furnished the author with themes and similes for a number of short and pithy talks on the higher matters of existence. He draws upon stones and stars, photography, telephones, printing, gardening, and many other human activities for his analogies.

- Whiting, Lilian. Kate Field: a record. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1899. c. 8+610 p. pors. O. cl., $2. [4535]
Kate Field was born in 1838 and died in 1895 in the Hawaiian Islands. She was richly endowed and most carefully educated. Of artistic nature, she devoted her life to practical work for her fellow-men. She travelled throughout the world. In Italy she lived with the Brownings; in Rome, Charlotte Cushman and Harriet Hosmer were her companions. She lived in Boston during the historic fifties, and knew Emerson, Lowell, Longfellow, the Alcotts, Wendell Phillips, Agassiz, etc. She gave the first lecture ever given in Alaska, and she was the dramatic critic of Fechter and Ristori. Miss Whiting dwells specially upon her intense spiritual nature.

Williams, Alice L. A little child shall lead them. Bost., J. H. West Co., 1899. c. 5-28 p. il. sq. S. pap., 15 c. [4536]
A little story of slum life.

Woolf, M. A. Sketches of lowly life in a great city; ed. by Jos. Henius. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, [1899.] c. 185 p. il. sq. O. bds., $2. [4537]

A collection of the most characteristic contributions to Life and Judge of drawings representing child life on the east side of New York City—a number of unpublished ones are included. The artist was born in London, England, August 27, 1837. He died suddenly of heart disease in Brooklyn on March 4, 1899. Humor and pathos are almost even in his work.

*Woollen, W: Watson. Woollen's trial procedure; a treatise on the law of Indiana pleading and practice as determined by the statutes of the state and the decisions of the supreme and appellate courts, contained in Burn's statutes, the acts of 1899, Blackford's reports, 8 v., Ind. reports, 150 v., and appellate court reports, 20 v., together with a full citation of text-books and the decisions of other states. # The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

DECEMBER 9, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE HARPER REORGANIZATION.

THE procedure to dissolve the Harper corporation does not mean the loss of the Harper name to the trade, but only that, in the judgment of those best qualified to judge, it is better to make a fresh start financially. The figures made public in connection with this procedure are better than those first published, since it appears that of the bonds issued, only $200,000 were paid out, chiefly in settlement of certain Harper family claims, while the rest were used as collateral for the Morgan and other loans, so that the actual indebtedness represented by the bonds is somewhat above one million instead of three million dollars. The embarrassment of the company has come largely from the serious financiering mistake of using the bonds as collateral for loans of about a third of their value, so that other commercial paper and outstanding liabilities were left unsecured and credit was thus limited. Demand notes, though in the hands of so large-minded and far-seeing a house as that of J. P. Morgan & Company, are an equally dangerous expedient. The schedule of assets discloses the usual overestimate—a weak point of the publishing business—of electrotype plates, on which a large percentage should be written off year by year until the book account is brought almost to the point of metal value, to keep a going business absolutely sound.

There is no reason to believe that the Harper business has been otherwise than successful in its publishing relations, despite mistakes of financiering, and the real difficulty may be found in the successive partitions or payments from the business to Harper heirs and other drains upon it as a family property. The daily press, in gratifying a useless public curiosity, has emphasized unduly, by giving specific lists, the indebtedness to writers, illustrators, and on copyright accounts necessarily associated with a going business. This by no means indicates that the Harper house has been behind hand in its accounts with authors and those employed as contributors to its periodicals. It would be a misfortune, indeed, if the Harper catastrophe, which seems to represent unwise financiering in an otherwise sound business, should be misconstrued to condone bankruptcies of concerns of another kind, which invite catastrophe by "kiting" methods in publishing as well as on the financial side, so that the end of these is logically only a question of time.

COPYRIGHT LAW OF PLAYS.

THE recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States under which the executors of the late Augustin Daly recover $6300 damages against William A. Brady because the latter in a scene in his play, "After Dark," infringed upon the railroad scene in "Under the Gaslight" has settled several interesting questions relating to the copyright law and its special provisions regarding damages in cases of the infringement of copyrights upon dramatic productions. "The whole question as to the infringement," according to the New York Sun, "turned upon the scene produced originally, about 1867, by Mr. Daly in 'Under the Gaslight,' where a person in the play is bound to a railroad track in front of an approaching train and is finally rescued by another person just before the train goes thundering over that part of the track. A similar scene was produced in Dion Boucicault's play, 'After Dark,' although the dialogue and other details of the scene were different and the play as a whole was very different.

"The first question which arose in the preliminary legal sparring for an injunction and damages was tried in the United States Circuit Court for this district in 1889 when the validity of the copyright was attacked by Mr. Brady's lawyers on the ground that there was a material variance between the title of the play as registered and its published title. Mr. Brady won upon this contention in the Circuit Court, but the Circuit Court of Appeals reversed this decision and held further that the railroad scene was in itself, and independent of the dialogue, a dramatic composition and covered by the copyright. An order was granted for an injunction and for an accounting of the profits which had been made by Mr. Brady through showing the infringing scene in 'After Dark.' A final decree in the original suit was entered in 1893, but without any decree as to the profits being either asked for or rendered. The action which has just been brought to a final decision was begun on July 14, 1893, by Mr. Daly, in the United States Circuit Court, to recover $13,700 damages against Mr. Brady for the violation of the copyright, and the most interesting of the questions upon which the decision rests was as to the character of the law relating to the minimum sum that might be recovered under Section 4966 of the Revised Statutes and also as to whether damages under this section could be recovered for any unauthorized performance of a copyrighted play which took place more than two years prior to the beginning of the action. Section 4966 reads as follows:

"Any person publicly performing or representing any dramatic composition for which a copyright has been obtained, without the consent of the proprietor thereof, or his heirs or assigns, shall be liable for damages therefor, such damages in all cases to be assessed at such sum, not less than one hundred dollars for the first, and fifty dollars for every subsequent performance, as to the court shall appear to be just.

"A jury trial was waived and the Court found that the evidence did not warrant a larger sum of damages than that authorized by the statute, and that it had no power to award a smaller sum and upon evidence being produced which showed that 126 unauthorized performances of the railroad scene in 'After Dark' had taken place within two years before the beginning of the action, gave judgment for $6300 damages. In reaching this decision the Circuit Court incidentally decided that it could not receive as evidence regarding the number of times the play had been produced testimony given by Mr. Brady himself when he was examined before a master in the course of a case upon the ground 'that evidence obtained from a party by means of judicial proceedings could not be used against him for the enforcement of a penalty.'

"The Court took the ground that the sums which could be recovered under Section 4966 were of the nature of a penalty and that being of this character no money could be recovered for unauthorized performances which took place more than two years prior to the beginning of the action because of the operation of the United States Statute of Limitations. It is the determination of these two questions that gives the present decision its particular interest. Justice Peckham wrote the opinion of the Supreme Court. Tracing back the United States statutes regarding dramatic copyright to the first act in 1856, he finds that the statutes all used the word 'damages' instead of penalty, in the provision for the recovery of a minimum sum for each performance and his conclusion is, that the intent of Congress was to fix a sum which should be awarded as damages in such cases when it was not convenient or possible to prove an amount of actual damage beyond that. He says:

"The idea of the punishment of the wrong-doer is not so much suggested by the language used in the statute as is a desire to provide for the recovery by the proprietor of full compensation from the wrong-doer for the damages such proprietor has sustained from the wrongful act of the latter. In the face of the difficulty of determining the amount of such damage in all cases, the statute provides a minimum sum for a recovery in any case, leaving it open for a larger recovery upon proof of greater damage in those cases where such proof can be made. When the evidence does not warrant a greater than the minimum recovery, the amount named in the statute still constitutes the remedy provided by the law, which plaintiff can pursue.

"Justice Peckham finds that since the statute is remedial and not penal, the evidence of the defendant obtained in judicial proceedings was admissible, as tending to establish the number of times he had violated the Daly copyright, and then he took up the question of the amount of damages that could be recovered under the statute. It was pleaded on Mr. Brady's behalf that Mr. Daly by beginning his action in the first instance by asking for an injunction and an accounting for profits had barred himself from the recovery of that statutory amount of damages, but Justice Peckham sweeps this plea aside, particularly as no final decree as to profits was ever asked for or received. Then at the very end of his opinion, he appends this very interesting finding regarding the time during which damages could be recovered under the statute in question, showing that the executors of Mr. Daly's estate might have recovered a considerably larger sum from Mr. Brady had they raised that question in taking the appeal to the Supreme Court.

"Our ruling in this case," says Justice Peckham, "if it had obtained upon the trial, might have permitted a larger recovery than the plaintiff secured, because the statute upon which the action is founded, not being of a penal character, the two years' statute of limitations to which the plaintiff was limited in his recovery does not apply. But as the plaintiff did not seek to review the correctness of the decision of the trial court, and contented himself with the recovery actually obtained, his executors have now no cause of complaint on that account and they assert none."

PERPETUAL COPYRIGHT.

ON the question of perpetual copyright in England, The Academy [of London] says: "It may be noted that in France copyright lasts through the author's life, and for fifty years afterward. In Italy and Spain copyright in a book survives its author by eighty years. In these countries, therefore, a good copyright remains a sort of income to a man's children and grandchildren. What, then, is the true, the just period in which copyright should be upheld? Or should there be a period at all? Copyright in perpetuity may seem a startling proposition, but why should a book not be regarded as a piece of property as real, and as inalienable from an author's heirs, as a house, or a mine, or a fishery? That hardship results from the present speedy termination of copyrights can hardly be disputed. It is easy, indeed, to name cases in which the extinction of copyright has been an injustice, or at least a matter for regret. Some forty years ago the grandson of Daniel Defoe was found to be an inmate of Kennington Union, and a public subscription, initiated by Walter Savage Landor, was raised on his behalf. Surely the grandson of the author of 'Robinson Crusoe' had a moral claim to the benefits of his grandfather's success."

THE HARPER RECEIVERSHIP.

APPLICATION was made on the 4th inst. to Justice Gildersleeve, in the Supreme Court, New York, by George L. Rives, acting on behalf of the Directors of Harper & Brothers for the dissolution of that corporation. The Court granted the application and appointed Francis C. Cantine, of 31 Nassau Street, as referee to take proofs, on March 28, 1900, of the claims on the company, and hear objectors to the dissolution of the corporation. Mr. Rives then applied for the appointment of a temporary receiver to take charge of the company's assets, and suggested that the State Trust Company be the receiver appointed. This appointment was made.

The petition, which was sworn to by John W. Harper, First Vice-President, gives an account of the financial condition of the corporation. The firm was incorporated in 1896, the corporation agreeing to take over the debts of the firm. Before the corporation was created an inventory was made of the assets of the firm, which showed a value of $6,100,000 without taking into account the value of Harper's Magazine, Harper's Weekly, or Harper's Bazar. The company was capitalized at $2,000,000 and first mortgage bonds for $3,000,000 were issued upon most of its property. Of these $200,000 were paid out in settlement of certain family claims, $2,500,000 were used as collateral for $850,000 borrowed on demand notes from J. P. Morgan & Co., and $300,000 as collateral for other loans of about $250,000. The debts of the old firm have been continued or paid off by borrowing money on the credit of the corporation.

Since the formation of the corporation large expenditure has been required for additional machinery and plant, electrotypes plates and other additions to the fixed assets, so that since the incorporation the obligations have kept increasing. The actual indebtedness is $3,163,212.19, of which $1,700,000 is due on notes payable, except in the case of the demand notes, six months from the making, and their maturity runs along at various dates until May 7, 1900. On the demand notes to J. P. Morgan & Co. for $850,000, secured by the mortgage bonds, payment was not demanded until November 27, when they were long overdue and the corporation was unable to meet them. There are sundry accounts owing by the corporation which are now due, or will shortly become due, amounting to $285,681.26.

The amount of the assets is given as $6,282,716. Some of the items are:

Real estate .....	$1,283,904
Boilers and machinery.....	374,784
Electrotypes plates.....	3,155,146
Original manuscripts.....	39,872
Cash .....	35,316
Stock in process.....	25,000
Accounts receivable.....	341,714
Books.....	722,578

Of some of the assets Mr. John W. Harper says: "This valuation was based upon the value of the said assets if combined and held together and owned by a publishing corporation entitled to continue the business of Harper & Brothers upon the premises." Assets amounting to $1,177,617.01 can be converted into money in a short time, but the amount realized from them would be much less if the sale were forced.

The liabilities are distributed as follows:

Five per cent. mortgage bonds sold..	$200,000.00
Mortgage on house 163 West Twenty-first Street.....	6,000.00
*Floating debt .....	2,813,421.26
Due to authors, wages, &c.(estimated)	66,000.00
Due for unexpired subscriptions, advertisements paid for but not yet printed, &c .....	77,790.93
Total.....	$3,163,212.19

*[About $1,000,000 of the floating debt is secured by the pledges of mortgage bonds.]

The last item, subscriptions, advertisements, etc., represents liabilities which will probably be wiped out in the course of issuing the various Harper periodicals.

On the 5th inst. Col. Harvey announced that the American Book Company had acquired all the academic and high-school text-books hitherto published by the Harpers. The list comprises about 450 different works, and includes a complete classical series of Greek and Latin literature, grammars, dictionaries, etc. The sale includes the books in stock, the electrotypes plates of all the works, and contracts for books not yet written. The common school books were transferred to the American Book Company about six years ago.

Judge Gildersleeve on the 7th inst. signed an order permitting the issue of receiver's certificates to the amount of $75,000 to pay wages and for other expenses necessary to publish the various periodicals of Harper & Brothers, etc.

THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL'S REPORT.

THE annual report of Postmaster-General Charles Emory Smith shows total expenditures of $101,632,161 and total receipts of $95,021,384, the deficiency being $2,422,747 less than last year. The Postmaster-General says: "The most urgent need of the postal service is the rectification of the enormous wrongs which have grown up in the perversion and abuse of the privilege accorded by law to second-class matter. There are many improvements and advances waiting development and application; opportunities for speedier transmission and delivery; fields for broadening the scope of the mail service and bringing it closer home to the people; possibilities of reduced postage; but above and beneath and beyond all of these messages of progress, which experience and intelligence are working out, is the redemption of the special concession which Congress granted for a distinct and justifiable public object from the fungus growths and the flagrant evils that have fastened upon it. For this costly abuse, which drags on the Department and weighs down the service, trammels its power and means of effective advancement in every direction, involves a sheer wanton waste of $20,000,000 or upward a year. The postal deficit for the current year is $6,610,776. But for this wrongful application of the second-class rate, instead of a deficit there would be a clear surplus of many millions. It is not now proposed to restrict the privileges of legitimate publications, or to modify the design of the law, but only to bring back its application to its original and just scope.

"It is believed that fully one-half of all the matter mailed as second-class and paid for at the pound rate is not properly second-class within the intent of the law, and ought justly to be paid for at the third class rate. This gives the enormous quantity of 176,351,613 pounds, from which the Department derives only a fraction of the revenue to which it is fairly entitled. The Department actually derived a revenue of 14.75 cents a pound for the third-class matter mailed last year, and on this basis the Department would have received for this wrongly classed second-rate matter $26,011,863, instead of $1,763,516, which it actually received, and the postal revenues would have been increased by the handsome sum of $24,248,347."

Mr. Smith concludes that over one-fourth of the entire volume and weight of the mails pay as second-class matter when it should pay third-class, and that this furnishes only one fifty-fifth part of the postal revenue and its carrying, reckoning at eight cents a pound, costs $14,108,129, while revenue from it was $1,763,516, thus causing a loss to the Government of over $12,000,000.

"If there is to be a favored class," Mr. Smith says, "let it embrace all the people. With this class paying properly, even penny postage, with reasonable limitations, could be applied to letters without entailing a deficit larger than that of the last few years, and possibly with none at all."

The Postmaster-General separates the abuses of the pound rate into three classes. In the first he places paper-covered books issued under pretence of being serial publications, but which are in no wise periodicals. These publications, he says, have few or no actual subscribers, and the books, after being transported in bulk to some central locality, are remailed many times, the Government losing seven cents a pound on each shipment.

The advertising "house organ" and that class of paper which styles itself a trade journal, but which exists merely as an advertising scheme, are next taken up. This latter paper, says Mr. Smith, "does not seek circulation on its merits or through subscriptions, but is mostly given away on a pledge to advertisers that so many copies shall be distributed. The 'house organ' is of the same type, but limited to being the advertising circular of a particular establishment. These prints do not conform in any just sense to the requirements of the law, but offer only a nominal and technical conformity."

Discussing the question of sample copies, the Postmaster-General says: "The third abuse grows out of the privilege of sample copies. In its original and obvious intent this privilege harmonizes with the policy under which legitimate publications are granted an exceptional rate of postage. The sample copy of a regularly admitted paper or periodical counting for support upon its merits is presumably designed to induce a new subscription by exhibiting its merits in a new quarter. But as a matter of fact in many instances the sample copy has become, not the individual exhibit but the potential cloak of a thousand times multiplied distribution without regard to subscriptions, and solely as the plea and pledge for advertising. This is not the object which the law had in view; it is not directed in any sense to the benefit of the reading public; its whole purpose is as an agency of advertising, and why should the Government furnish the means of this private advertising at a great loss to itself? The sample copy privilege is the life of the 'house organ' and the spurious trade journal, and in other cases it is abused. Why should it not be restricted to its original purpose?

"The simple statement of these great and palpable abuses ought to be the sufficient argument for their prompt reform. It is not sought to interfere with the just privileges of legitimate publications. Indeed, their publishers have a direct and manifest interest in the extirpation of these wrongs which, if left uncorrected, will inevitably provoke a sweeping condemnation and warfare, involving alike those that are justly and those that are unjustly included. They have the further inducement for joining actively in the reform that its achievement would go far to extinguish the meretricious methods of building up illegitimate publications and to restore the business to its regular and natural channels."

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN OF CONGRESS.

HERBERT PUTNAM, the Librarian of Congress, has submitted his first annual report. It contains as an appendix a personal sketch of John Russell Young, the late librarian. The report is made up mainly of a statement of what the library contains up to date in books, pamphlets, maps, charts, music, manuscripts and prints. This mass of material has never been catalogued on a modern basis, and Mr. Putnam states in great detail just what should be done. He recommends a considerable increase in the working force of the library to accomplish this and other necessary work. In the estimates, the total force is raised from 134 to 229. He is now getting together a working reference library for the use of members at the Capitol. Special collections will be sent over on deposit from time to time bearing on questions at the moment under consideration. Mr. Putnam says the reading and music room for the blind has been decidedly successful.

AMERICAN BIBLIOGRAPHERS.

HENRY STEVENS.*

HENRY STEVENS, son of Henry Stevens, the founder and first president of the Vermont Historical and Antiquarian Society (1791-1867), was born in Stevensville, Barnet, Vermont, August 24, 1819. He passed fifteen months, September, 1838, to December, 1839, in Middlebury College. The year 1840 was spent in Washington, D. C., as a clerk in the Treasury and in the Senate; 1841 to 1843 in Yale College, where he won a B.A. degree; 1844 in Harvard Law School under Story; "all the while," as he says in his "Recollections of Mr. James Lenox," "dabbling in books and manuscripts by way of keeping the pot boiling." During the vacations and holidays of those five years he scoured through New England and the Middle States "prospecting in out-of-the-way places for historical nuggets, mousing through public and private libraries and old homestead garrets, chiefly on behalf of Peter Force and his American archives. Rich harvests of old papers, early American imprints, and sallow pamphlets were gathered in these excursions, that extended from Maine to Virginia. These were bought, borrowed, and skimmed for Colonel Force, while many collectors and librarians enjoyed some pickings." In this way, too, the acquaintance of many of the chief authors and book-lovers of the country was made, and by the time he had reached his twenty-sixth year Stevens thought he had acquired sufficient experience to try the happier hunting fields of the old world, its libraries, its archives, its bookstalls, and its homesteads.* It seemed to many of his friends like a wild-goose chase; but the goose was caught, though in the chase after it Stevens—ultra-American that he was—spent the remainder of his life in a foreign land. Those who may be interested in Stevens as a book collector will find the autobiographical notes in his "Recollections of Mr. James Lenox of New York and the Formation of his Library" (London, Henry Stevens & Sons, 1886, ix+211p. portraits, 16") truly charming reading, in the best sense of the word. In this sketch the author is able to give him only brief consideration as a bibliographer. In this capacity his services to the bookseller and librarian were of the highest importance.

Shortly after beginning his researches abroad, Stevens conceived the plan of compiling a list of all books relating to America, and of all books printed in America, prior to the year 1700. In 1848 he published a prospectus, in which he gave the following title to the work:

"Bibliographia Americana: a Bibliographical Account of the Sources of Early American History; comprising

*Mr. Sparks was one of the earliest patrons of Henry Stevens, "the Green Mountain Boy" and American bibliophile in London. In a letter, February 3, 1847, Mr. Stevens speaks of his great success in becoming a special agent for Panizzi, the librarian of the British Museum, and says he now has large plans, "especially for a boy who was obliged to borrow $40 in order to leave home. God bless you for assisting me to that money. I shall never forget your kindness." Panizzi employed Stevens to furnish the British Museum, at a commission of ten per cent., with every book and pamphlet relating to America, North or South, that could possibly be discovered in any language. Panizzi sent him on special commissions to the Continent and gave him letters of introduction to the great libraries of Paris, Stuttgart, Munich, Leipzig, Dresden, Vienna, Berlin, and Göttingen. Stevens became the American agent of some of these libraries, and introduced into Europe hosts of American books. He once jocosely said to Mr. Sparks: "It seems to me that 1000 volumes of good American books in Austria will be equal to half a dozen Presbyterian missionaries and two steam-engines." The international services of good booksellers, like Stevens in London, and Bossange in Paris, were incalculable. Stevens made the British Museum one of the best places in the world for American historical research. He patriotically gave, however, first choice to the John Carter Brown Library in Providence, to which, at one time, he sold his entire collection of Americana, two-thirds of which came from Mr. Obadiah Rich, his virtual predecessor, with whom Mr. Sparks had dealt for many years. Stevens said to Mr. Sparks in 1845: "I doubt not Mr. Brown will soon have the most complete collection of books pertaining to North America, printed prior to 1700, in the world." Stevens also rendered important services to the Brinley Library, and to Mr. James Lenox, founder of the Lenox Library in New York. A very large portion of the Lenox books once belonged to Stevens (see "Recollections of James Lenox," p. 186). He was the literary agent in London of the Smithsonian Institution. For Harvard and other colleges, for American historical societies, for public and private libraries throughout the United States and Canada, he secured many valuable books. The importation of English literature and periodicals into America he long carried on, single-handed, upon a large scale. At one time, 1854, he said he was doing "a cash business of upwards of £20,000 a year." The great libraries of two continents were materially aided by this enterprising "Green Mountain Boy," this protégé of Jared Sparks, who first set him upon the track of materials for American history in foreign archives.—"The Life and Writings of Jared Sparks, comprising selections from his journals and correspondence. By Herbert B. Adams, Professor in the Johns Hopkins University." (2 vols., Boston, Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1893. v. 2 pp. 522, 523.)

a Description of Books relating to America, printed prior to the year 1700, and of all Books printed in America from 1543 to 1703; together with notices of many of the more important unpublished manuscripts. Prepared by Henry Stevens, and published under the direction of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington."

It was estimated that the work would contain not less than 5000 titles, which were to be obtained from the public libraries of Europe and America. Work was actually begun; but the plan was so ambitious, and involved so much capital and expensive help, that it may be assumed that Stevens after a decade shrank from the sacrifices demanded; and though he never admitted that he had abandoned the work, he let it drift until death relieved him of all further responsibility.

Among his first important bibliographical publications was the one entitled "Catalogue of My English Library. . . . Printed by C. Whittingham, November, 1853, for private distribution." (xi+107 p. 16°. 1000 copies.) In this volume Stevens describes 5751 volumes of more than average importance. In 1870 he was engaged in preparing an enlarged edition of this catalogue, to embrace about 10,000 volumes, with brief biographical notes of most of the authors. Unfortunately this work was never completed.

In January and February, 1854, Stevens issued the first two parts of "Stevens's American Bibliographer," which he abandoned to take it up again in 1858, under the title of "Historical Nuggets: Bibliotheca Americana; or, a Descriptive Account of My Collection of Rare Books relating to America." . . . (C. Whittingham, 1858, 1862, vols. 1, 2, 805 p. 18°.) This work contains 3000 titles, given in full, with the collation and price of each work. It was intended, as far as it went, to be a manual for collectors of this expensive class of books. But it did not go very far, as it was not a selection, but only a list of such books as Stevens happened to have for sale at that time. Stevens intended to supply the deficiency by additional volumes; of these only two numbers of vol. 3 (160 p.) were published, in May and August, 1885. They cover the entries A-Backus, and were edited by Henry Stevens and Henry Newton Stevens. In the Morell and other catalogues it was noted that the greater portion of this work had been destroyed by fire in New York in 1864. Mr. Stevens, however, contradicted this report, having found that when Mr. Richardson's fire occurred, the "Nuggets," of which only a few copies had been consigned to him, were not injured.

The auction catalogue, "Bibliotheca Americana: a Catalogue of Books relating to the History and Literature of America, sold by Messrs. Puttick & Simpson, March, 1861, 273 p. roy. 8°, 2415 lots," was abridged from the "Historical Nuggets." It is one of the most carefully-made auction catalogues ever issued in London. The collations were given of every book, so that the volume is now of considerable value as a book of reference. Two hundred and fifty copies were printed on large paper and bound in cloth, and not offered for sale till after the auction was over.

Another auction catalogue prepared by Stevens that deserves mention is the one prepared of the library of his father, and entitled: "Bibliotheca Historica; or, A Catalogue of 5000 Volumes of Books and Manuscripts relating chiefly to the History and Literature of North and South America, among which is included the Larger Proportion of the Extraordinary Library of the Late Henry Stevens, Sr., of Barnet, Vt., Founder and First President of the Vermont Historical and Antiquarian Society. The whole comprising such a collection of ancient and modern books, rich and rare, useful and common, as seldom occurs for sale in any country, including many titles never before recorded in an American Catalogue. Edited, with Introduction and Notes, by Henry Stevens, G.M.B., F.S.A., etc., sometime Student in Yale College, now residing in London at 4 Trafalgar Square. To be sold by auction, by Messrs. Leonard & Co., at their Library Sales-Room, No. 48 Bromfield Street, in Boston, [Mass.] on Tuesday the 22d, Wednesday the 23d, Thursday the 24th, and Friday the 25th day of March, 1870. Sale each day to commence at 10 in the forenoon and 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Boston: H. O. Houghton & Co., Cambridge: Riverside Press, 1870." (256 p. 8°.) This beautifully-printed volume was designed not merely as an auction catalogue, but as a kind of pious monument erected by the author in honor of his father. In some respects it is one of the most elaborate auction catalogues ever issued, either in this country or in Europe. The notes are peculiar, and are generally affixed to such books as are not usually so treated, while the well-known rare books have no comments, but stand on their known merits.

Two other auction catalogues with which Stevens's name was connected are those of the Crowninshield and of the Humboldt libraries. Mr. Stevens, having purchased Mr. Crowninshield's library for about $10,000, had it withdrawn from sale in Boston and shipped to England. He took out of the collection the Bay Psalm Book and nearly all of the other bibliographical rarities, the great attraction of the library to him. He then combined the rest with the remainders of two other fine libraries, flavoring the whole with many choice lots from his own stock, such as Hulsius, De Bry, Bibles, etc., and so compounded the remarkable collection, listed as "Catalogue of a Collection of Singularly Interesting, Fine, and Rare Books, in which is included the Greater Portion of the Very Important Library of the Late Edward A. Crowninshield, Esq., of Boston. Sold by Auction by Messrs. Puttick & Simpson, July, 1860." (180 p. 2143 lots.) Lot No. 912, Hulsius, a very fine set, which he had taken infinite pains to make up, the 26 parts, all first editions, save one, brought the unprecedented price of £335. The Crowninshield copy of Smith's "Virginia and True Travels," 2 vols. in 1, Lon., 1627-30, with the original portraits of the Duchess of Richmond and Pocahontas, brought about £30, and went to Dr. Barney, of Richmond. The same copy produced $247.50 at auction in New York, January 19, 1870.

"The Humboldt Library: a Catalogue of the Library of Alexander Von Humboldt, with a Bibliographical and Biographical Memoir," (London, 1870, xxxii+791 p., portrait, roy. 8°,) was prepared under the superintendence of Henry Stevens, by John Bohn, for Sotheby, Wilkinson & Hodge, with a view of selling the library by auction. But owing to the great fire in the auctioneer's premises, in June, 1865, in which a large portion of the library was destroyed, the catalogue was not finished and published until 1870. Extracts from Stevens's

Introduction will be found in an article from his own pen on Humboldt in Silliman's American Journal of Science and Arts, January, 1870.

Between the years 1847 and 1857 above £30,000 worth of Bibles, in all languages, were collected, collated, and passed into the libraries of James Lenox, George Livermore, Francis Fry, the British Museum, the Bodleian, and other libraries. In order to reduce his labors to the greatest degree of precision he had about 400 pages put up in very small clear type, uniform with the "Historical Nuggets," with most careful collations of each work. It was only in this way that he could identify and describe the various editions and ascertain their history. Not being satisfied with the work, only a few uncorrected proofs were taken to serve as copy for a larger and better work that was never completed, under the title of "Catalogue Raisonné of English Bibles, New Testaments, Psalms, and Other Parts of the Holy Scriptures, from the Earliest Editions to the Year 1850." C. Whittingham, 1855. (400 p 18°.) "Soon after Stevens went to London he made the acquaintance of Sir Antonio Panizzi, who then ruled at the British Museum, and in time he became its agent for the buying of American books—a relation that was not disturbed by any of Stevens's financial misfortunes, and that was maintained till the last. Panizzi understood Stevens's value, and he made use of his services in a way for which no American can ever forgive either of the pair. As a result of Stevens's efforts the British Museum contained at the time of his death a more extensive collection of American books than any single library in the United States. The fact is a reproach not to Stevens, but to Americans in general, and to the Congress of the United States in particular.

In another issue we shall follow Mr. Stevens's career until his death.

CHICAGO WANTS FREE HOME-MADE TEXT-BOOKS.

At a meeting of the Chicago Board of Education, held November 28, a resolution was introduced providing that the school-books to be used by the public schools of Chicago shall be compiled by its employees and printed by a commission of education and a department of publication, to be instituted by the board. As there are close to 250,000 pupils, and a complete set of school-books costs $27.68, and as the framer of the resolution thinks the books can be furnished under his plan for $14 for each pupil, he estimates the annual saving to the pupils would be $347,500.

While the plan as outlined in the resolution contemplates only a step towards eliminating unnecessary matter and furnishing the books to the children at the lowest possible price, some trustees believe this is preparatory to having the board furnish books to the children entirely free.

The trustees hold widely different opinions on the question and seem about equally divided. Several trustees oppose the scheme, hinting that it tends to "pauperize" the pupils, while others favor it on the ground that it would place all the children on a level, books being now furnished free to those who confess inability to buy them. The matter will probably cause a hot fight when it comes up for a deciding vote.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY'S RECOVERY FROM THE FIRE.

WE learn that the J. B. Lippincott Company's loss of sheets and bound stock was absolutely complete; therefore all of their publications may, for the present at least, be considered "out of print." There is every reason to believe that the plates of their more important publications, such as "Chambers's Encyclopedia," "Worcester's Dictionary," "Lippincott's Gazetteer," etc., together with the plates of their important medical works, have not been injured. The firm has engaged the facilities of all the press-rooms and binderies in Philadelphia for the immediate issue of the books in demand, as well as of their various periodicals—Lippincott's Magazine, Annals of Surgery, etc. The publishers expect that the January numbers of all of these periodicals will appear on time. The remainder of their list will be reprinted as soon as the plates can be dug out, and their new factory can be got in running order.

The firm has opened temporary offices at 624 Chestnut Street, where all communications should be sent. As soon as they are able to fill orders, notice will be given to the trade through the trade organs and by circulars. All that prompt and energetic action can accomplish will be done to get the firm's affairs straightened out as quickly as possible.

ROUTLEDGE VERSUS WERNER.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, LTD., of London and New York, began suit in the United States Circuit Court in Trenton, N. J., November 27, against the Werner Company of Akron, O., alleging infringement of copyright. Although the defendant concern does business in the West, it is organized under the New Jersey laws and operates a branch office in East Orange.

According to the bill of complaint, George Routledge & Sons, Ltd., held prior claims on books compiled by Josephine Pollard and known as "The History of the New Testament in Words of One Syllable" and "History of the Old Testament in Words of One Syllable," which have, it is alleged, since the securing of the copyrights in 1888, been used by the Werner Company under similar titles and embodying much of the contents of the original publications. Damages are demanded in the sum of $10,000, and an immediate injunction is requested.

THE HARPER EMBARRASSMENT.

PHILADELPHIA, December 5, 1899.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: Amid all the individual calamities that have been experienced by the book trade of the United States since its commencement the embarrassment of the great house of Harper & Bros. is not merely the greatest, but it is of such importance as to be an event of profound national concern. When such an imperial industrial ship finds itself among the breakers it is time for those who navigate other such ships, big and little, to take soundings and find out where they are.

It is now over thirty-four years since the close of the War of the Rebellion, and from December, 1865—thirty-four years—there has been a persistent determination, on the part of the most influential, to obtain and maintain the gold standard of payment, regardless of consequences to the people, their interests and their civilization; and the fight goes on, and one of the most earnest advocates of this policy has been Harper's Weekly.

The practical application of gold standard legislation has given us two disastrous financial crises, those of 1873 and 1893 and numerous minor ones, and long periods of depression—the last great one lasting for six years, and just now passing away to be reinaugurated by new congressional meddling. During the thirty-four years, since December, 1865, the book business has experienced not less than twenty-five years of abnormal paralysis of greater or less degree, with the result of such a demoralization of the trade that with few exceptions the newest and best books of the leading publishers are retailed at 25% off, and these publishers do not appear to be strong enough to protect their property to such an extent as to enable the trade, on a paying basis, to keep their publication in stock. And now the great house of Harper & Brothers, so long the admiration or the envy of the book trade of the United States, has gone down; and well may we exclaim:

"Let us have peace;" peace financial and peace industrial. HENRY CAREY BAIRD.

[The above letter is printed at the special request and in personal deference to a veteran associate, who writes: "I trust that you will not reject this communication from probably the oldest active member of the book trade in the United States, even though you reject his conclusions."—ED. P. W.]

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

THE newsdealers of Winchester, Mass., and vicinity, recently held a meeting at A. W. Rooney's store to effect an organization for mutual protection.

A COMMITTEE of the Pittsburg Booksellers' and Stationers' Association is taking stock in the stores of the members of the association to arrange for the proposed plan of exchange. When one firm is "long" on a certain class of goods, the others are notified so that orders for that class may be filled without sending to the publishers. There has been no material change in prices of stationery recently, but if the scarcity of paper stock continues there will likely be some sharp advances. There is a great want in all lines, but in blank-book material this is being severely felt. One firm stated that when ten carloads are ordered one is received.

FOR BOOK-BORROWERS.

RAND, McNALLY & Co. put in their books a book-mark with the following inscription:

About this volume you have bought;
When read, pray place it on your shelf,
And lend it not; your neighbor ought,
Like you, to buy it for himself.
Lend him whatever else you choose—
Your cash, to buy the book unread,
Your gloves, hat, trousers, toothbrush, shoes—
But not the Author's brain and bread.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MAGNUS SHEWAN died in Toronto, Canada, on November 6, aged 84. Mr. Shewan was the first bookseller in Canada to sell newspapers, and was the first newsdealer in Toronto. He was born on the largest of the Shetland Islands, and opened his Toronto bookstore in 1846.

FRANCIS T. JARMAN, who for many years conducted a bookstore in the Exchange Building at New Haven, Conn., died in that city November 6. He was born in 1829 and was graduated from Yale in 1848. About six years ago he sold out his bookstore to H. J. Auger, and retired to enjoy the fortune left him by his mother.

F. W. WOOD, for upwards of thirty years connected with J. B. Lippincott Co., died suddenly November 30, aged fifty-two. He entered the employ of J. B. Lippincott & Co. in 1863, and was advanced from time to time from clerk to salesman, until he was made general manager and put in charge of the credits and finances of the house. The only break in his continuous service with the firm was made when for a few years he joined his old associates in the house of Claxton, Remsen & Haffelfinger. Mr. Wood was a man of solid character and attainments, and easily won and held the friendship and devotion of all who became associated with him in business.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

OWEN WISTER is writing a brief biography of General Grant.

EGERTON CASTLE has finished a picturesque story of the eighteenth century, entitled "The Bath Comedy," which will first appear as a serial in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

RICHARD HARDING DAVIS is at work on a novel to be entitled "Captain Macklin, his life and adventures, by Himself." It will probably not be ready until next fall, or even later. He is also at work on a comedy to be brought out next February by Sothorn.

WINSTON SPENCER CHURCHILL's new novel, "Savrola," was finished just before he went to do active duty in South Africa. He is a lieutenant in the British army, and is making such a mark of his own as author that he is no more in danger of being confounded with his American namesake of Richard Carvel fame.

MISS BESSIE SHIRLEY, according to Leslie's Weekly, "is a young Texas girl who has not yet reached her twentieth year, but who nevertheless is the owner and publisher of one of the best mining and stock journals published in America—The Western Mine and Stock Journal—a distinction enjoyed probably by no other of her sex on either continent, or at all events by no other woman of like youth."

NOTES AND QUERIES.

CAN any of your readers give me any information of the publishing firm of William Veazie of Boston, who in 1862 published an edition of Charles Lamb's works?

ANTIQUARY.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

M. E. MUNSON, New York, has in press a book entitled "The Dark Continent at Our Doors—Slavery, Heathenism, and Cruelty in South America," by the Rev. Emilio Olsson.

ELDER & SHEPARD, of San Francisco, will publish at once "Moods and Other Verses," by Edward Robeson Taylor. Dr. Taylor, well known as the translator of the Sonnets of Heredia, has made a selection from his original work in verse, and has joined with that some translations.

THE Technical Office of the Automobile Magazine, 31 State Street, New York, has in preparation "The Automobile Almanac for 1900 and Automobile Trade Directory," for the use of automobilists, manufacturers, capitalists, investors, promoters, and every one interested in automobile development.

NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY have just ready "Lockhart's Advance on Tيره," by Captain L. T. Shadwell, special correspondent to the London Daily News during the Afrida war in Northern India. The book gives a striking description of the charge of the Gordon Highlanders up the heights of Darghai.

JEAN BOUSSOD, MANZI, JOYANT & Co. (successors to Goupil & Co., of Paris,) have just ready "Josephine, Empress and Queen," by Frederick Masson, translated from the French by Mrs. Cashel Hoey. They will publish on the 11th inst. a companion volume to the foregoing, (but in French only,) by Henri Bouchot, entitled "Catherine de Medecis."

MRS. BURNETT's new novel, "The De Willoughby Claim," promises to have a great success, the first edition having been oversold before publication. If so, it will not be the first of her books to reach in sales the hundred thousand mark, at least two of her novels having done so, and nearly a quarter of a million copies having been sold of "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

E. & H. T. ANTHONY & Co., New York, have just published vol. xii. of "The International Annual of Anthony's Photographic Bulletin," a valuable contribution to the library of photographic literature. Not only is the book filled with valuable information for both amateur and professional, but in the many excellent examples of the photographer's skill given is, indeed, a work of art.

THE Chicago Evening Post has issued its fifth annual book number, covering twelve pages. Juvenile literature is very fully treated and the pages are copiously illustrated. The more important books are grouped under the firm-names of publishers. This supplement to the Evening Post will be of great service to its readers. It looks quite festive with its graceful border by Bert Cassidy.

THE CENTURY COMPANY is making an exhibition of original drawings for illustrations of The Century magazine, at 518 Fifth Avenue, New York, the same unoccupied store used by them for exhibition purposes last year. The collection consists of one hundred numbered pieces, artistically arranged, and they give the passers-by a good idea of what first-class magazine pictures are before they reach the public.

JOHN ANDERSON, JR., has established himself as auctioneer of literary property at 34 West Thirtieth Street, just off Broadway, New York. Mr. Anderson will have every facility for attractive display of the stock for sale, both in the windows and on the shelves, and will give the same attention to the smallest consignment that he would to those of the greatest magnitude. Mr. Anderson is well and favorably known as a bookman throughout this country and abroad.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish at once the following: "Lewis Carroll and the Real Alice in Wonderland," personal reminiscences by Miss Ida Bowman, Mr. Dodgson's adopted niece; a new edition of Charles Francis Richardson's "The Choice of Books;" "Leaves from the Tree of Life," by Rev. Dr. Alexander McLaren; "Prayers, Public and Private," by the late Archbishop Benson, edited by his son, Rev. Hugh Benson; also, three books for young people—"Prisoners of the Tower," by Violet Brooke Hunt; "The Parson's Daughter and How She was Painted by Mr. Romney," by Emma Marshall; and "Sylvia in Flowerland," by Linda Gardiner.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish to-day in their American Statesmen series a biography of Salmon P. Chase, anti-slavery leader, United States Senator, Governor of Ohio, Secretary of the Treasury, and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. written by Professor Albert Bushnell Hart, of Harvard; "The Book of Legends," gathered and rewritten by Horace E. Scudder, with illustrations; "Letters to Washington, vol. II., 1756-1758," edited by Stanislaus Murray Hamilton; "The Two Legacies," a pathetic little story, by Georgina Lowell Putnam, James Russell Lowell's niece; "Federal Clearing Houses," by Theodore Gilman, a continuation of the author's previous book. "A Graded Banking System;" "Life of Bishop Latimer," by Rev. A. J. Carlyle, a new volume in the series of English Religious Leaders; and "Rembrandt," forming vol. VII. of the Riverside Art Series, a collection of fifteen pictures and a portrait of the painter, with introduction and interpretation, edited by Estelle M. Hurl.

THE DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE Co. will publish early next year a book by George Iles, which will review on popular lines the achievements of the electricians. In the essays which have outlined the argument of this book Mr. Iles has received the hearty commendations of Herbert Spencer and his American disciple, John Fiske. The author maintains that electricity is comparable with fire as an agent of human advance, and he shows that electricity not only exceeds fire at its own work, but performs uncounted tasks far beyond the reach of flame. He endeavors to prove that it is a few such "leaps" as this now under our eyes that have brought man from being the first of animals to becoming incomparably higher than the creatures which share his dwelling-place. In furtherance of this view, a brief survey of the triumphs of the camera is included. The book is intended to interest all who wish to understand the main lines upon which modern discovery and invention proceed; its descriptive details are underlain by an argument for evolution more bold than has ever before been advanced in America.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATHENS, GA.—D. W. McGregor, the well-known bookseller, has bought out the book and stationery business of Captain J. J. C. McMahan. Mr. McGregor, it will be remembered, is the successor to the business established in 1879 by J. W. & E. W. Burke. He has made new plans for greatly enlarging his facilities for doing business, and his friends wish him much success.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—W. W. Wetmore, bookseller, has turned over his stock to H. H. Herbst, as trustee for the mortgagees.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y.—W. F. Tynam has opened a bookstore and newsroom at 41 Mechanic Street.

MARINETTE, WIS.—The City News Company, composed of Miss E. B. Ferris and Miss Jessie Greenlaw, has opened a book and periodical store on Hall Avenue.

MERIDEN, CONN.—Sherwood & Son have opened a bookstore at 62 West Main Street in connection with their toystore.

MONSON, MASS.—F. S. Chapman has opened a book and periodical store.

NEW YORK CITY.—Deputy Sheriff O'Donnell on the 1st inst. received an execution against the New Era Publishing Company, of 156 Fifth Avenue, in favor of Joseph M. Richards for $4428 in an attachment obtained by him on November 9, under which the sheriff levied on the office furniture. The sheriff has also received an execution for $637 in favor of the Evangelist Publishing Company against the same concern.

NEW YORK CITY.—Charles Fellows Page, formerly secretary of L. C. Page & Co., of Boston, has removed to New York and associated himself with George H. Benjamin at 45 Broadway. He will give especial attention to corporation law and the law of patents, trade-marks, and copyrights.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, MANITOBA.—N. B. Scott, of Winnipeg, has bought F. T. Fisher's book and stationery business here.

ST. JOSEPH, MO.—George C. Crowther, assignee of the Graham Book and Stationery Company, has asked for a final discharge; $9777.34 worth of claims were allowed. The stock was sold for $7263.55 and $785.44 was collected. It cost $1709.95 to do this.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—C. Witter, publisher, bookseller, and stationer, who has been located for the past 27 years at 21 South 4th Street, has removed his business to a more convenient location at 19 South Broadway (Temple Building).

WATERVILLE, ME.—Walter D. Spaulding has bought the stock and good-will of the College Book Store, and will move the business to his store on Main Street.

WINDSOR, ILL.—Lilly & Dunscomb, proprietors of the Windsor Gazette, have opened a book and stationery store, with a fine stock of books, periodicals, and stationery.

AUCTION SALES.

[We shall be pleased to insert under this heading, without charge, advance notices of auction sales to be held anywhere in the United States. Word must reach us before Wednesday evening, to be in time for issue of same week.]

DECEMBER 12, 13, 3 P.M.—Americana. (696 lots.)—Bangs.

DECEMBER 14, 15, 3 P.M.—Scarce and interesting books and autographs.—Bangs.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

NEW BOOKS

The English Radicals An Historical Sketch.

By C. B. ROYLANCE-KENT. Crown 8vo, $2.50.

The purpose of the book is to trace the descent of the Radicals from their origin in the early years of the reign of George III. to the present time. It contains some account of the character and political opinions of the famous Radicals of history, a comparison of the new Radicals with their predecessors, and some analysis and discussion of the causes which have brought about the condition of the Liberal party as at present constituted.

Some Experiences of an Irish R. M.

By E. C. SOMERVILLE and MARTIN ROSS, authors of "An Irish Cousin," "The Silver Fox," etc. With illustrations. Crown 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

These experiences of a Residential Magistrate in Ireland are very amusing and written in a bright conversational style. The many humorous scenes and original characters are illustrated with pen-drawings by Mr. Somerville.

Chisel, Pen, and Poignard; Or, Benvenuto Cellini, His Times and Contemporaries.

By the author of "The Life of Sir Kenelm Digby," "The Life of a Prig," etc. With 19 illustrations. Crown 8vo, $1.75.

The River War

An Account of the Recovery of the Soudan.

By WINSTON SPENCER CHURCHILL, author of "Savrola," "The Malakand Field Force," etc. Edited by Col. F. Rhodes, D.S.O. With 35 maps and 60 illustrations; and with photogravure portraits of Slatin Pasha, General Rundle, General Sir Archibald Hunter, General Wingate, Colonel Macdonald, Lord Kitchener of Khartoum, and Lord Cromer. Two vols., medium 8vo, $10.00.

England in the Nineteenth Century

By C. W. C. OMAN, Fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford; author of "A History of Greece," "A History of England," etc. With 5 maps and plans. Crown 8vo, pp. xii-276, $1.25.

Drake and the Tudor Navy

With a History of the Rise of England as a Maritime Power. By JULIAN S. CORBETT. With portrait, illustrations, and maps. New and cheaper edition. Two vols., crown 8vo, $5.00.

Some South African Recollections

By FLORENCE PHILLIPS (Mrs. Lionel Phillips.) With 37 full-page illustrations from photographs. 8vo, $2.50.

In this book Mrs. Phillips gives a record of her recent experience of life in Johannesburg, and also her recollections of the events connected with the Jameson Raid. A feature of the volume is its pictures of Transvaal scenes and people.

Shakespeare's Sonnets

Reconsidered, and in part Rearranged, with Introductory Chapters and a Reprint of the Original 1609 Edition, by SAMUEL BUTLER, author of "Erewhon," "Life and Habit," "The Authoress of the Odyssey," "Life and Letters of Dr. Samuel Butler," etc. 8vo, $3.50.

Jane Austen

Her Contemporaries and Herself.

An Essay in Criticism. By WALTER HERRIES POLLOCK. Crown 8vo, $1.25.

BOOKBINDING FOR PUBLISHERS

IT is easy enough to solicit and obtain business when you can offer low prices. But it is necessary to have something besides low prices. A good reputation, good work and the ability to live up to contracts are some of these qualifications. There are many bookbinders who will take work for a low price and then cheapen the binding and delay the work because they have not the facilities of turning it out, thus defrauding the publishers.

In my new place of business, in the building at the corner of Centre and Leonard Streets, where I have a floor space of over 40,000 square feet, filled with the very latest and most modern machinery, such as automatic cutting and trimming machines, rapid quadruple folding machines, new model Smyth sewing machines, the most powerful smashing machines, the very latest improved Crawley rounding and backing machines, Smyth bookcase machines, and the very finest stamping department in this city, all run by my own electric plant, also a very extensive marbling and edge gilding department, managed by the most skilled mechanics. My capacity is over 15,000 cloth bound books per day, and I can do the best work at the lowest prices. I can safely say that I can save publishers who have large editions to be bound from 10 to 20 per cent. on all bindings. I am now ready to make arrangements for bindings for the year 1900.

This is not a plant run by capitalists, or any other moneyed trust or syndicate as a venture, but a well-appointed bindery, managed by a practical man who has made a life study of bookbinding, and has risen from apprenticeship to ownership.

TO THE TRADE.

Our attention having been called to the fact that Messrs. Hurst & Company are issuing "The Professor at the Breakfast Table," by Oliver Wendell Holmes, and "The Minister's Wooing," by Harriet Beecher Stowe, with the announcement that they are "Reprinted from the original text as published in the Atlantic Monthly," we respectfully notify the trade that we have been advised that the copyright on parts of each of these books is valid and still outstanding, and in accordance with such advice have instituted legal proceedings to prevent the sale of these infringements.

Should the proceedings thus begun result in decisions in our favor, all persons handling these books, or having them in their possession, will be held accountable for any loss or injury occasioned by their acts.

Book Jobbing House.

WE can not only lay out of stock a greater variety of titles than any other house in the trade, but we can, and regularly do, assemble and ship on the day of receipt a vastly larger proportion of orders.

From now on till Christmas the dealer must have his orders filled immediately, or his customers are disappointed. We understand this want and have organized our house to meet it. We despatch business not only promptly, but thoroughly. Our service—good all the year round—is invaluable to dealers at the holidays.

Last Week

We gave a list of twelve selected books. This week two of them have run ahead of all the others.

1. Mrs. Burnett's New Novel.

The extraordinary success of "De Willoughby Claim" is not surprising when it is remembered that two of her other novels have sold over 100,000 copies each, and "Fauntleroy" over 250,000.

2. Page's Santa Claus's Partner.

This has had everything in its favor—authorship the story itself, unique colored illustrations, old fashioned red and gold binding, and big advertising. It has everywhere been pronounced the great Christmas story of the year, and promises to rival "Red Rock," which is steadily nearing the 100,000 mark.
